Papers of the Agricultural Workers Organizing Committee, 1959-1966

Agricultural Workers Organizing Committee (AWOC) was chartered by the American Federation of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations (AFL-CIO) to organize farm workers in California. During its seven-year existence, AWOC called many strikes against growers and farm labor contractors and achieved some success in raising wages of farm laborers. Their records reflect these activities until their merger with the National Farm Workers Association to form the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, AFL-CIO in 1966.

Subjects covered by these records include:

- Agricultural laborers--Laws and legislation
- Alien labor--Government policy
- Boycotts
- Bracero Program (Public Law 78)
- Collective bargaining – Agricultural -- California
- Filipino Americans
- Mexican Americans
- Migrant agricultural laborers
- Strikes and lockouts -- Agricultural laborers -- California
- Strikes and lockouts -- vineyard laborers-- California -- Delano

American Civil Liberties Union Archives (ACLU), 1912-1946

Filmed from Princeton University, the New York Public Library and the ACLU

Throughout its history, the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) has consistently stood at the center of controversies involving the rights of Americans. Its records offer researchers a unique view of the inner workings of the ACLU and the hundreds of groups with which the ACLU interacted. Covering the years from before the ACLU's official founding in 1920 through the end of World War II, this publication presents a rare opportunity for research libraries to acquire a valuable and accessible array of primary source materials on some of the most important issues that affected the United States during the first half of this century.

Collections of the United Farm Workers of America

Series 1: Office Files of the President, 1951-1971

Cesar Chávez and the fight to organize the fields

In 1965, the mostly Filipino farm workers represented by the Agricultural Workers Organizing Committee struck the Delano, California grape growers for a pay raise to $1.40 an hour. They appealed for support to the National Farm Workers Association, the union of mostly Mexican and Mexican American farm workers being organized by Cesar Chávez. The result was a five-year battle that introduced the entire nation to the plight of agricultural workers by means of the grape boycott, the TV documentary The Harvest of Shame, well-publicized marches, and attention to the religious fasts undertaken by Chávez. This historic strike led to the merger of AWOC and the NFWA and to the formation of the United Farm Workers of America, the best known and, for a time, the most successful union of its kind.

These publications will be of interest to scholars working in a broad range of disciplines and areas of study. The Filipino farmworker struggle for dignity will be of interest to departments that focus on Asian American studies. The impact of merger of Filipino and Mexican unions will interest scholars working in Ethnic Studies, particularly those now looking at the interaction of various racialized groupings in the United States with each other. Those working in immigration and border studies will be able to trace the development of the UFWA's positions on undocumented workers, guest worker programs, border security, and collaboration with Mexican unions. Students of labor history, agricultural history, and history of the US west will naturally find much to explore in these papers.

The crucial role of the Migrant Ministries and the liberal Catholic Church hierarchy in the movement will be of use to Departments of Religion. Gender and Chicana studies programs will be interested in the papers that shed light on the career of central UFWA leader, Dolores Huerta. Primary sources related to UFWA's use of theater, song, pilgrimage, and prayer will be of interest to cultural studies and Chicano studies. Finally, a review of recent scholarly publication makes it clear that the story of the United Farm Workers of America continues to fascinate social movement theorists. Thus, students in political science and sociology departments will find this collection particularly valuable.

Series 2: Office Files of the President, 1951-1971

The Work Department records, which are especially rich in correspondence and internal organizing reports from around the country, are essential to any study of the United Farm Workers union. Included are papers that span the years 1969-1975, a period in which the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee (UFWOC) grew into a union recognized as such by the AFL-CIO. Highlights of those critical years include the historic July 1970 agreement with the grape industry; the Salinas and San Marias Valleys' vegetable strike, said to be the largest farm labor strike in California history; the national lettuce boycott, and the famous 1973 grape strike. Teamster and police violence during that strike resulted in 44 shootings, 400 beatings, and 3000 arrests, as well as the deaths of strikers Nagi Daifullah and Juan De La Cruz. The grape victory and the new confidence in the vegetable fields prompted farm workers from around the country to begin to ask for UFW help organizing agriculture. Determination to decide union representation by farm worker votes, rather than leadership deals, led the UFW, in 1975, to fight and win the California legislature's approval of the groundbreaking Agricultural Labor Relations Act (ALA).

The Holocaust and Records of Concentration Camp Trials

RG153: Records of the Office of the Judge Advocate General (Army), War Crimes Branch, Entry 149: Records of Concentration Camp Trials, National Archives, College Park, MD

These records provide a unique legal perspective on war crimes perpetrated in Nazi Concentration Camps. Rumors of horrors about concentration camps leaked out from Germany before the end of the war. Few people believed the stories at the time, but then came the ghastly facts of Nazi brutality, revealed by Allied liberating forces. Battle-hardened veterans, inured to the sight and smell of death, were sickened by what they saw. Staggering out to meet them were walking skeletons; their bodies stripped of flesh and their minds rippled by disease and starvation. General Dwight D. Eisenhower recorded that he had “never at any other time experienced an equal sense of shock.” He urged Washington and London to send observers to see the indisputable evidence.

This collection provides unique, and never published, documents on the investigation and prosecution of war crimes committed by Nazi concentration camp commandants and camp personnel.

Documents include: correspondence; trial records and transcripts; investigatory material, such as interrogation reports and trial exhibits; clemency petitions and reviews; photographs of atrocities; newspaper clippings; and pamphlets. Documents on several concentration (and later extermination) camps and sub-camps are represented in this new collection, including Mauthausen, Dachau, Belsen-Bergen, Buchenwald, Treblinka, Sobibor, etc.

Mauthausen documents are well represented and include: 33 lists of Mauthausen victims arranged by nationality and compiled by the U.S. 3rd Army from death certificates, notifications of next of kin, death books, and hospital records found at the camp at the time of liberation; and trial transcripts— U.S. v. Friedrich Kurbel, et al., regarding sub-camp Gros-Raming; U.S. v. Wlasislaus Dopierala, regarding sub-camp Gusen I; and U.S. v. Heinrich Schmitz, et al., regarding sub-camp Ebensee (also includes information on the Fingerleiden detail at Ebensee and the Melk transport from Gross- Rosen and Wolfsberg, sub-camps Brettstein, Wiener-Neustadt, and the SS special sub-camp Hintzen.

Enemy Aliens. Terrorism. Patriot Act and civil liberties. “Accusations that the Patriot Act infringes on the rights of Americans and aliens alike...” “Without surveillance of aliens—national security could be compromised.” “FBI surveillance in wartime...” These issues have been prominent in the news media for several years, but the history of the twin issues of national security and surveillance of aliens is not new. Since the founding of the nation, these issues have been in the forefront of political debate. From the Alien and Sedition Acts in 1798, to the Enemy Aliens Act of 1917, the Federal government has maintained surveillance of those opposed to the American way of life. This collection provides insights into the recent history of the surveillance of aliens and national security during World War II.

United Farm Workers Organizing Committee

Forged out of unity between Filipino-American and Mexican-American farm workers in the great 1965-1970 strike against the grape growers in Delano, California, the UFWOC won the public to the cause of agricultural labor through a nationwide consumer boycott of table grapes and exposure of pesticide use. The United Farm Workers Organizing Committee was chartered in 1966 by the AFL-CIO in the afterglow of the historic farm worker "Pilgrimage to Sacramento" led by Cesar Chavez. Other principals include Dolores Huerta and Larry Itliong. Press releases and correspondence document UFWOC's relationships with Eugene McCarthy and Robert F.
